With over 1,000 Realtors in the Venice area, standing out can be challenging—but not for Kelly Pankiw. She tackles her career with the same vigor and enthusiasm she brings to life. Her tenacious work ethic, emotional intelligence, and professional poise have been key to her success in the competitive real estate field.

Kelly and her husband David moved to Venice in 2018, where they now work both together and independently to help clients fulfill their dream of living on the Gulf Coast. David, a Retirement Planning Specialist, perfectly complements Kelly with her real estate expertise. Together, they often combine their services to assist clients in achieving their goals.

Finding the perfect home for clients requires a knowledgeable and trustworthy advisor who truly understands the local market. Whether working with buyers or sellers, Kelly places a strong emphasis on building relationships and believes that effective communication is crucial for success. She dedicates time to listening, understanding, and guiding her clients through every step of the process. With a well-rounded client portfolio encompassing both sellers and buyers, Kelly is fully equipped to address the unique needs and challenges of each.

With more than 20 years of experience in marketing and sales, Kelly is a leading agent at her brokerage, consistently ranking within the top 3% of the Venice Area Board of Realtors. She holds the prestigious Certified Luxury Home Marketing Specialist (CLHMST™) designation and has earned the distinguished Diamond and Ruby Elite Status at Engel & Völkers.

Having a network of over 16,000 advisors across 36 countries, Engel & Völkers provides Kelly with unparalleled global connections. She utilizes these relationships to market her sellers' homes internationally, attracting luxury real estate buyers from around the world who are interested in properties in the United States. This strategic alignment ensures maximum exposure and opportunities for her clients.

But Kelly's impact goes beyond real estate. Her personal philosophy of "service above self" drives her dedication to the community she loves. Through her involvement with Rotary International, Impact100 SRQ, and Special Olympics, Kelly makes a difference not just with her time, but with her heart. She regularly donates a portion of her earnings to Special Olympics and is deeply committed to supporting local charities, an integral part of her involvement with Impact100 SRQ and Rotary Futures. Her international connections don't end with her business; they're a part of her personal life, too. Alongside her husband, David, Kelly has welcomed over 12 Rotary foreign exchange students into their home, enriching the lives of the students, her children, and themselves.

Kelly shares, "Whether you are selling or buying a home, it's often one of the biggest investment transactions you will make. I take that responsibility very seriously. I am dedicated to providing clients with my expert knowledge and experience so they can make informed financial and life-changing decisions."

For Kelly, real estate is not just a profession; it's a passion that allows her to create meaningful relationships, foster a sense of community, and leave a lasting, positive impact on the lives of those she assists.
